Lisa Prezelski is a problem solver, skilled facilitator and respected member of the family law community. At Williams Family Law, she works with other members of the firm to resolve disputes related to divorce, custody, child support, spousal support, alimony, equitable distribution of marital property and separation.

She joined the firm after working as a divorce hearing officer and custody conciliator in the Bucks County Family Masters Office for 16 years. Through her work as a divorce hearing officer and custody conciliator, Lisa developed the negotiation skills necessary to help litigants reach settlement in high conflict custody actions and complex equitable distribution and alimony proceedings.

Lisa is a trained family law mediator and parent coordinator. Her skills enable her to facilitate communication and cooperation between parties outside of the traditional courtroom setting.
